

SZF Webservant Report Aug '03

Hi Family:

The website is still up and running. I have not received any input this quarter regarding this site. I need your opinions on this so I can make changes to make it more user friendly. The discussion forum part of the site has been changed a little to be able to have a SZF area of discussion. I'm looking in to the ability of being able to upload files directly to this site. I am checking with the hosting provider to see if this is possible. Right now you can attach file(s) to your posting up to 8meg. This should cover almost any type of file excluding large graphics files. If you have a file larger than 8meg you can E-mail it to me at steve@californiasteve.com I can receive very large files at this address.
